

Barn wood is all the rage, and while barn wood is easy to find, GOOD barn wood is scarce. Sometimes it's better to take straight lumber and make it LOOK like barn wood. Here we took some standard lumber and fashioned a long dining or craft table. The black steel cross-brace holding it all together came from a steel hub – the kind utility companies use to lay out long stretches of wire. We added some nice dark espresso stain, some polyurethane to shine it up and protect it, and some black accents for that industrial look. Easily seats eight for dining.

92 inches long, 29 inches wide and about 30 inches high.

$325