

The legs on this table came from a spool holder in a textile mill. Heavy thread was spun off a spool that sat on these legs. We found them at an antique store and realized they would make great and unique table legs. The wood is repurposed from a home construction project. The stain color is called "Gunstock" and it really complements the black cast iron legs nicely. This is a counter height table that will make a real statement in any home. Seats 4 comfortably or 8 cozily.

Roughly 48" square and 32" high. Requires 24" chairs or benches.
