

I got a pile of old ambrosia maple from a retiring woodworker in Leicester. Ambrosia maple has wonderful warm tints of turquoise, amber, and gray. It looks great when paired with blue-gray colors. I had seen a nice bench in these colors and scaled up the design to build a dining table. The simple pedestal legs with the half-cross stringer is a timeless design. The ambrosia maple really shines when contrasted with these pedestal legs. The table style allows plenty of leg room and comfortably seats six. The pedestal legs allow crowding around the corners if you have extra diners.

Roughly 72 inches long, 33 inches wide, 30 inches tall.

$375

