

I found some nice oak barn wood in Hendersonville, and also found an iron wagon wheel rim in Fairview. With some effort, I turned them into a unique dining or occasional table. Using the wagon wheel as a rim, and painting all the metal and the legs black, contrast nicely with the light oak and gives it that medieval look. You won't find anything like this at your local furniture store. Roughly 43" across and 30" high.

43" across, 30" high, top is about 3" thick. Easily seats 4-6 persons.
