

We bring new life to vintage finds. In Weaverville we found an old liquor serving bar that was badly worn. It hadn't been stained correctly and the stain was peeling off. We sanded off most of the old stain on top, leaving just a bit – so that when we polyurethaned it, it shone with the color of a whiskey barrel. Then we polyurethaned the front and sides, painted the trim a satiny black, and added a kickplate made of pallet wood. We also added three adjustable height bar stools for maximum comfort. The result is beautiful!

This would make a great addition to any home of any style. 42" high, about 60" wide, 18" deep. Two shelves on bartender's side.
